Why do they want a civil war so badly?

796

6 days ago by TrumpingTheStorm +796 / -0

Everything the left and the GOP (communist) is/has been doing is pushing us closer and closer to kinetic fighting. They will not even allow patriots to speak anymore. They have shown us our votes mean nothing. They have told us our believes mean nothing. They have pushed us into a corner. They have successfully taken over America. Everything from the courts to social media (the town square) has banned us from having our voices heard.

I never wanted this to happen. What other choices are there? When will we fight back? When will we stand up for our dieing nation? There Will be no 2022 election, they will simply choose who they want in power, the media will agree, and the courts will suck them both off.

I'm not dooming, I'm fuming. Biden has shown he is okay with concentration camps in China, and the media and politicans are silent. Have fun at the 're-education' camps.

91 They aren't afraid of a civil war, they know at this point we won't do a damn thing to stop them so they just stopped pretending to care.

59 Spot on. I no longer trust ANY public figure to be legit for a patriotic cause. We are now at the ammo box. Words are useless and only for peasants. Patriots either begin action next or shut the fuck up and enjoy slavery.

12 Action will commence once ones life is directly treaded on. And I don't mean mandating masks, or taxing more money, I mean once LEO and or military and illegal immigrants start invading property or start coming to homes to grab guns, gun owners will defend themselves. Every gun toting patrio personally know are the types that wait for someone to directly engage with them on their prope They're too busy working, building up their arsenals and purchasing more land to do anything el protest, or March or tweet or comment on social media or vote in some poll.

What they care about is framing it as our fault, so the majority of unsuspecting population just blindly follows them. They want this to go HOT, so they can "take out" a large voting block and be the heros that save the country giving them unlimited power for the next 100 years.

If you win the civil war, the whole fucking point is that you take out their voting block.

Who will frame us as anything, when their broadcasting stations are ours?

You're so cucked, you think they'll still be in charge after they lose a civil war!

Who said they would lose a civil war? How fucking retarded do you have to be to call people cucks on the internet while the government is literally fucking you as you do nothing?

They are not afraid of us. They are not afraid of you. They have proven time and time again that they constantly have us in check, and this is their well set up attempt to force checkmate.

We have no leadership. We have no plan. We have no reinforcements. Meanwhile they have spent the last 50 years infiltrating every aspect of society, taking over every institution in this country with people that are 100% committed to their cause.

You keep waiting for a civil war because you think you are going to grab your gun and go shoot at people in the street. Meanwhile the war has been going on for decades and you have been losing without even knowing you were supposed to be fighting.

Best case scenario is we have one final chance to turn the tide and gain momentum. For that we need leadership. We need a General that can take this movement and force change. We don't have that, and I am starting to question if we ever will. Every time we think we have a true leader they bitch out and throw us under the bus.

I have been on here trying to warn people for a year that we are getting our asses kicked, and all anybody ever says is "bruh we would win a civil war in 10 minutes against these pussies".

I've been saying this. We (Americans) were put into checkmate when they stole that election. Either they get their Chinese vassal president or we have to have a civil war or split the country because the media has turned the left into communists who don't care as long as they get their way. We'll be divided for the conquering. Who wins either way? China

Most of us have decided, "fuck it, we're out".

Yes, men want to fight but to fight and die for something, we need to know that fighting and dying for it was worthwhile.

That the sacrifice we made with out lives meant sometimes and the truth is, America is not worth fighting for or dying for.

▼ No, it's not that.

There's a link/picture of a 4chan archive floating around (sorry, I lost it) where all the events around were predicted, and spot on as well. The person seemed to be warning us that something in the deep

If this is, indeed, a "color revolution", than they need us to turn violent in order to set the narrative.

So, we're basically between a rock and a hard place.

This does not mean we're "fucked", "screwed", or any other curse word implying that there are no options. However, I suspect the deep state wants us to believe we are. It means we're basically in "check", and we need to be cautious in our attempts at figuring a way out. The advantage we have over Venezuela and whatnot is we've seen this song and dance before, and we know what they are trying to do. The left has, once again, set the narrative against us. If we get violent, it really is over. They'll have all the excuse they need to squish us.

DC is clearly following a "script", and McConnell is clearly involved. They're trying to set the narrative again, but for once, this appears to be failing. The people aren't fooled. The news networks are collapsing. People are viewing social media with a skeptical eye, even if they use it. And yes, I do still catch customers keeping track of the happenings.

Knowing the strategy, and knowing our TINY advantage of the narrative being blatant and obvious BS, the biggest and most correct answer is this:

GET! INVOLVED! LOCALLY!

The reality is this: While Dominion didn't help things, the election would not have been stolen without the vast efforts of many, many, many small-potatoes leftists like Ruby Freeman and her ilk.

Ignore any and all "national" or "nationwide" issues for now. You've got 2 years before midterms. There are many, many ways people have brought up to get involved locally that will help.

1. Precinct chairs
2. State Legislatures
3. Convention of States
4. City Council/School boards
5. Primary campaigns
6. Educating normies

Just to name a few.

Mostly, don't give up. That is when things are really over. It might come to a time when the shooting does start. Make them shoot first, and make sure the news can't memory hole it. Meme magic is real, it works. Otherwise, we wouldn't have had 75 million people on our side.

Also remember that you are NOT alone. The demoralization campaign is real.

On a side note: When you browse Patriots.win, get out of the habit of using the updoot like a "read" button. There are a lot of fun posts, meaningful posts, and useful posts. There's also a lot of demoralization and divide/conquer attempts. For anyone who genuinely looks lost, you can leave a comment, but get in the habit of "hiding" these posts once you've read them instead of just updooting everything you see.

I agree with all you said. If they can successfully goad people into starting a civil war they will immediately call on the UN to come in and save them.

The UN will arrive and so will China, then the Chinese troops will stay to help with the 'stabilization'. Gulags will be set up, all they deem 'bad' will be killed.

Their resources are the MSM and the Military, their weakness is people are not buying into their story of white terrorists as they would like. The proposed AG has said he will personally prosecute all who were refuse to obey any EO that violates the constitution.

Texas was targeted, ALL red states will be as well. It is critical that states make themselves Bill of Rights Autonomous Zones immediately.

They have an alternative to civil war, war with China. They would prefer a civil war to seize control, they may decide to go ahead without action by us because their situation is relatively weak.

I think we may see China attack Taiwan, Harris will say, this means war. China will immediately attack CA, my bet is Harris will surrender immediately and be made Regent.

Remember China owns these people, China wants world control, if they cannot get a civil war going, I believe a US war with China is inevitable. That is why they are destroying the Military.

IMO we are the new Libya and they will come for us one way or another.

Could be wrong.

Biggest issue is China, or any UN force can't be sustained for long stateside without the US military logistics chain keeping them supplied. That might be why they are purging the ranks of potential dissidents, because those in supports roles are more likely to be sympathetic to them, those in combat roles usually aren't.

Totally agree, that is also why they are saying that the US is now imperiled by domestic terrorists who are mostly former military and law enforcement.

I am looking to Trump for a plan, certainly hope he has one. If not, things are going to get pretty dicey IMO

permalink parent save report block reply

Well, thinking about it, there was also another angle about how purging the ranks ties in illegal immigration, and recruiting male aliens for combat roles considering how Progressives will really only work in support roles. Dangling citizenship for service kinda deal. But language barriers may create problems that could cripple units and moral.

As far a Trump, while he's the face of the movement now, we can't rely on just him. We're going to have to start coming up with leadership down the ranks, to help hand local issues better.

Think back to Jan 6th, I wonder if that could have been helped with street captains or like, people that guide the crowds and secure the events, and keep our own from wandering into the psyop traps set by Antifa and the DC police.

Wishful thinking, but it would at least give a greater case for deniability and more effective counter message for normies that there was no riot, and any violence or misconduct was staged by our political opponents.

I've repeatedly asked this site to look into creating .win pages for each state and nothing seems to be happening.

You cant have pedes working locally when the patriot.win has people from around the world and the US commenting.

Fuck it, I'm even ok with turning patriot.win into a local site that only accepts comments from people living within the US (even if not being possible)

You cannot win this or even play if you do not play locally.

We just waste our time here, getting angry and upvoting idiotic "Biden is an old fucktard" memes I'm all for memes but the Time article showed that you can do wonders when you organise and fight back.

As much as I'm pissed that Trump lost, I cant help but praise the leftists pissants for working hard on their strategy to fight back.

This site should be telling pedes how to organise themselves and fight back.

Instead we get silly memes about Biden and posts that enrage us over what the Dems are doing to Trump.

I've found getting involved locally pretty easily without getting this site involved. I just searched for conservative groups near me and a few came up. After a few emails, I found positions they were looking to fill with MaGA people. I also contacted my city council lady who I know is based bc I campaigned for her and she gave me ideas to get involved where there are weaknesses in representation.

▼ This is spot on. It's not over yet. It will, however, require years of hard work on the local level to take it back. Trump told us he would work for us and we just needed to vote. But the voting system is now broken. Trump cannot fix that himself. That's our job because it's on a local level. We can fix it.

Think of all the hearings we saw regarding election fraud all over the country with Rudy—what if those rooms were full of elected pedes? Most of the elected officials seemed to be old school republicans who had good intentions but didn't know what was going on, or race/gender baiting leftists who seemed used to getting their way. What if those rooms were full of the people we are used to here? Sharp, red pill people who love the country but also know what's going on.

I am looking into getting involved locally. I want to meet my fellow pedes in person. And I don't understand why we haven't created local .win sites to organize meetups.

The only way to solve this is peacefully. Because as we've seen in January, violence is used against us to prove their false accusations. From my own experience with friends and family, they find it easier to believe we are violent than to believe the news is lying to them. We need to prove them wrong.

▼ It has been the same with leftists and gun control. Conservatives wait in terror for ( typically ) a leftist commit a horrible shooting somewhere which starts the next demand for gun control. Conservatives commit those crimes yet are punished for the crimes of leftists who don't obey the laws anyway. Now it is trying to push us towards violence knowing that will be used against us for the Final Solution. Meanwhile the left knows they will gain power and special rights.

If things go hot, we win. There is no other outcome. The left needs the police and military to be their enforcement arms. There's maybe 2 million of those available in this country, and half of them will defect rather than jail or kill their own families. How many of us will stand up when it begins? 7 million, 10 million, 20 million? We have the vast majority of the 400 million guns in this country. When we've decided enough is enough, we will win. Period.

Just owning the guns is NOT enough to win a civil war. We need organization, strategy, means of production of supplies including food water ammo, we need to effectively train the 97% of gun owners who have no experience gun fighting, etc etc

So having the guns is not enough. I suppose the left NOT having any guns is a bonus for them? And why the hell would we need to have trained every gun owner in America?! That's a couple hundred million people! A bit of overkill, that. Here, take an hour and watch this. It'll give you confidence so you won't feel patriots would just lose right away on such a fight.

I understand your point but when the left owns things like the means of communication, and control the government resources like the power grid, how do we effectively organize to combat them? If we need 10 million gun owners to stand up and fight (in the literal sense, open combat) we need to have a lot of other resources besides just the firearms.

You're right, of course. I'm a mom in a small town with one gun, so I wouldn't know where to start. But after watching that video, which was made before the election, I can't help but think there are groups out there, already in communication, already with ability and plans, who have had just about enough. I think they will act, expecting others to begin joining where they can. And I think people will. Every patriot out there is looking around desperately for how to stop this. I, for one, am thinking about my local situation. What could I do to help fight the left here town. That answer is, not much, my area is very red. But you can bet I know the place ev would congregate in person to make plans and organize.

We can't just have open meetings about how to start the civil war, obviously. Think about you live, who you know, what would be needed. Start talking to people you trust, get some small

Unfortunately I know first hand that those groups are now being heavily infiltrated by the feds, especially after the election and the "seige" on the Captiol. Patriots are now classified as domestic terrorists and they are doing everything they can to stop those groups. Proud Boys already has members in prison and more facing fed time in the court system right now. Oath Keepers now also have members with federal charges. The FBI's main purpose these days is to destroy these groups. I agree that there are millions of patriots out there that want to fight back and are willing to make very serious sacrifices-- I just fear that we won't be able to effectively organize those people when needed. While we are separated we are not a threat, we have to be very well organized to be able to win an actual war. They've already shut us out of social media and when we make our own platforms, like Parler, they shut those down too. The members of those group can, and certainly are, be surveilled by the government so we can't even trust individual communications. If we were the left, and had control of social media and the cellular providers, it wouldn't even be a question. We would be a way greater force than our forefathers that fought for our independence the first time.

Thats easy local broadcasting stations and food warehouses become priority hypothetically speaking. But that alone isn success. Churchill and the French navy would be a good read. But really local organizations meeting with state reps having open discussion and telling your reps that state security for WE THE PEOPLE is the only thing holding the country together and making our voices heard is the way we must go. The government does not worry about thise that go home when told to its concerned about those i can not control. We must give this one more chance to try peace. Be loud be seen be heard start locally then organize state level rallies. Then start helping neighboring states etc. But yes if a hot war happened one would need to be in control of supply chains and media. And would need to know certain (tool's) could not be used against them ▼ BLM commits random acts of violence.

In a real war, soldiers attack strategic targets. First, take out the media apparatus. With the enemy deaf, blind, and defanged, it will be a simple matter to start picking the rest of the oligarchs off in the streets and in their homes.

The best they can hope for is to flee out of the country. Which, unfortunately, will be pretty easy for them since the military will control the airports.

Once they're gone, however, Americans will regain control. It's only a matter of setting up a provisional government, just like the Founding Fathers did in 1776.

I just hope there are enough smart decent people like them left in America to hold it together afterwards, lest protracted anarchy set in.

▼ Sadly, that is all that Trump ultimately accomplished.

Four years of outstanding achievements, undone in four days with a few strokes of a pen at the corrupt hands of a demented puppet.

I thought that perhaps Trump's presidency might put America back on track. Sadly, it appears as

We never stood a chance after all.

Yep. Rush used to explain so brilliantly that Dems/lefties don't even try to win you over with their ideas because they think that they are innately superior (which is also the reason why they do not like to campaign). Also, it's easier for them to attack their challengers and want them gone than it is to actually persuade them. Sick and sad.

The more the in-fighting continues the more it allows them the freedom to persecute their enemies and dismantle any resistance. They can consolidate their power. An actual civil war would allow them to take on tons of debt to reshape the economy toward their ends, while purging the country of any resistance to their goals. They don't imagine themselves losing of course.

I agree. Just look at the "insurrection at the Capital" angle they took. After a summer of continual E antifa riots they act like the stop the steal protestors were trying to take full control of the governm They are just looking for an excuse to take more freedoms away from Americans to "protect them" those scary white supremacists

12 ▼ This is exactly right. They see an opportunity to accomplish goals using civil war as a pretense. They're operating under the assumption they'll win, either arrogance, or perhaps they've arranged alliances with other forces. Patriots actually have a good chance to win in a situation like that..but need to organize and reach as many normies as possible first. Wait too long and they'll keep consolidating power to pick the fight at a time of their choosing, it'll be too late. They're setting the pace, that needs to change.

The one thing they are afraid of is that we actually fight back. If we actually start holding leftists accountable for their crimes against the real American people.

The sooner this fight starts, the better.

Whether they want a fight or not doesn't really matter since our choices are basically fight or die.

We know where this is all going, we've seen it all happen several times throughout history, I don't want Americans to wind up in mass graves and the greatest nation to ever exist turning into a communist hellscape.

Violence is the only option left to us, patriots need to stop being scared to admit it.

This is the point in history where it's all going to be decided, do we accept the conflict and fight to save ourselves or do we disappear into the darkness forever as every record of our existence is doctored or destroyed by the communist traitors.

Personally I believe there are things much worse than war, like what this world will become if we don't fight.

Assassination's of tyrannical governors or media zealots? That will be condemned by everyone left to right. Especially the right, being moral upstanding people. So the only real way for this to start is for the left to take the first shots.

Change my mind.

If we're at war with each other, they could attempt to invade our country. Then using guilt by association they brand all conservatives and libertarians as evil nazi terrorists and make it stick. While that they pass "common sense" gun control that lets them use local police as tools to disarm us. Once we are properly disarmed and branded as demons they will take a short break (1-4 months) to rally the filled useful idiots before sending them after us, thus starting the white/conservative genocide. Then they'll off the useful idiots and rule unchallenged with complete power. 3

▼ There will be a civil war. It'll be between the left in power and the millions who thought they would share in the plunder. Most of us won't be involved in the fighting, we'll either be already gone or we'll be waiting to pick up the pieces. It might take Hollywood, big tech and the fortune 500 a few years to realize they've been played, but, it'll happen and when it does, blood will flow.
